Party on, Winnipeg

An online reality show that aims to find out which Canadian city has the wildest universityaged partiers is looking for Winnipeg contestants who'll fight for their right to party.

to party.
Beer4Breakfast is the brainchild of 26-year-old McMaster University alumni Michael McCrudden, who admits to partying a little through his post-secondary career.

"It seems there's a reality show for everything whether it's getting married or buying a house ... but there's no one documenting what goes on when these kids close their books and start letting loose," said McCrudden from Toronto.

The show hopes to hit 13 cities, and each episode will see McCrudden and the show's two other hosts — a DJ and a party photographer — spend 24 hours videotaping contestants as they plan their parties, throw their parties, and then try to remember their parties the next morning.

After the hosts weigh in and give each house party a grade, viewers will get the chance to pick Canada's wildest partiers by voting online

But it hasn't been all partying for the show in its search for contestants so far

Producers received a chilly welcome from the mayor and police chief in London, Ont., after a fivehour riot made up mostly of drunken students broke out in the community last St. Patrick's Day.

"It's a very fouchy subject in London," admits McCrudden. "But they were dealing with something that had gotten out of control ... what we're doing is an organized event with tickets, guest lists, ID checks, and security.

Intergenerational effects to be documented through digital storytelling

SHANE GIBSON

The University of Winnipeg's Oral History Centre (OHC) will use a large grant received Monday to help document how the children of those who spent time in residential schools were affected by their parent's experiences.

The research project, called Children of Survivors: The Intergenerational Experiences of Residential Schools, will use a $500,000 grant from the Aboriginal Healing Foundation to document people's experiences through digital storytelling.

"These are stories that can be difficult to tell, they are stories that can be difficult to hear and they're stories that a society may find difficult to accept as part of its heritage," said Dr. Alexander Freund, associate professor of history and co-director of the OHC.

"We hope that the stories that are told in the course of our project and afterwards will help those who tell them, and those who hear them."

The project will be conducted in partnership with the U of W's Indigenous Studies Department, the Prairie Women's Health Centre of Excellence, Ka Ni Kanichihk and Moon Voices, and will focus on the stories of aboriginal men

"Men (have) always been a group that's been very difficult to reach through both our community projects and our research," explained Mike DeGagne, executive director of the Aboriginal Healing Foundation.

The project involves the creation of resources that will promote reconciliation and encourage and support aboriginal people in building and reinforcing a sustainable healing process

The work will build on a previous initiative by the Prairie Women's Health Centre of Excellence that looked into the intergenerational effect the residential school experience of mothers had on professional First Nations women.

The U of W's research will take place in Winnipeg beginning this month and ending in March 2014.

Grauer's gorilla deaths raise fears others have been killed in Congo

Endangered Grauer's gorillas are victims of ongoing violence and a new rebellion in eastern Congo. A decision to allow oil exploration in a national park there may put the gorillas at greater risk

The poaching comes as the park itself faces oil explora-tion. Congo's Hydrocarbons Minister Crispin Atama Tabe announced Monday that the government is authorizing the British firm SOCO to explore for oil in the park, Africa's oldest, created in 1925 under Belgian rule.

Virunga National Park, declared a UNESCO World Heritage site in the 1970s, is the only place on Earth that boasts all three African great apes in addition to elephants, buffalo, hippos, large antelopes, lions, leopards and a plethora of smaller animals and birds. Virunga and the SOCO concession encompass Lake Edward, one of the Central African great lakes that provides a livelihood for some 40,000 fishermen.

Atama Tabe told The Asso ciated Press that oil exploitation could help bring security to volatile east Congo, although mining of the region's massive mineral riches has had the opposite effect, with various armed groups vying for control of revenues.

Quebec inquiry. 'Donnie Brasco' talks about inner workings of the Mafia

Quebecers might be shocked by reports of Mafia control over the construction industry, which is allegedly so rife with corruption and collusion and inflated costs that the provincial government has been forced to call a public inquiry.

To the man known as "Donnie Brasco," it's old news.

The police officer who in-filtrated the New York Mafia and inspired a Hollywood movie described Monday how the New York City underworld took over the construction industry using methods that would be familiar to anyone who watches the news in Quebec these days.

Joseph Pistone, a legendary

FBI agent who spent six years undercover as a Mafia associate starting in the late 1970s, told the Charbonneau Commission about the inner workings of the Mob in the United States during his testimony.

He said the Mob controlled the industry thanks to its stake in labour unions and raw-materials companies - so that it consistently managed to claim a piece of the profit, even when public contracts went to a business not controlled by crime.

"They did it with the cement, the steel, anything that had to be used in the construction of that building, they were getting a piece of it," Pistone said. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Embassy-sharing with Britain sparks criticism

The plan by Canada and Britain to consolidate consular services in some embassies sparked criticism Monday that the Harper government is turning back the clock on the country's relationship with its former colonial master.

By all appearances, the agreement to share some consular services in each others' embassies represented little change from the status quo. But the fanfare associated with the announcement raised questions about whether Canada was compromising its foreign policy interests abroad.

Police have arrested two people suspected in a wave of methanol poisoning that has killed at least 25 people in the Czech Republic in the past two weeks, officials said Monday. Kafka said the two were working at a plant that uses methanol as an ingredient to produce windshield washer fluid.

Homelessness

Housing homeless is cheaper than status quo: Study

A new study suggests it's far cheaper to give a homeless person a place to live than to provide a patchwork of emergency services.

The study by Stephen Gaetz, director of the Canadian Homelessness Research Network, found that governments are spending at least $4.5 billion a year dealing with homeless people, including the cost of health care, law enforcement, shelters and food banks.

That's because their use of the health system is high and unpredictable, and because they often have run-ins with the justice system.

Health officials monitoring fatal SARS-like virus

Familiar scene? So far there is no connection between the cases except for a history of travel in Saudi Arabia

Global health officials are closely following a new respiratory virus related to SARS that is believed to have killed at least one person in Saudi Arabia and left another person in critical condition in Britain.

The germ is a coronavirus, from a family of viruses that cause the common cold as well as SARS, the severe acute respiratory syndrome that killed some 800 people, mostly in Asia, in a 2003 epidemic.

In the latest case, British officials alerted the World Health Organization on Saturday of the new virus in a man who transferred from Qatar to be treated in London. He had recently travelled to Saudi Arabia and is now being treated in an intensive care unit after suffering kidney failure.

Health officials don't know yet whether the virus could spread as rapidly as SARS did or if it might kill as many people.

"It's still (in the) very early

Coronavirus

New disease linked to SARS family

There are a large number of coronaviruses. Some infect animals, others infect birds and still others infect people. In humans, coronaviruses typically cause colds.

But a coronavirus was also the cause of the 2003 outbreak of severe acute respiratory syndrome or SARS, which killed 44 people in Toronto and about 775 people worldwide. The new coronavirus reportedly causes severe pneumonia and kidney failure.

To date there is no sign of spread to health-care workers. That is important because health-care workers often serve as inadvertent sentinels of the spread of infectious diseases.

During SARS, for instance, health-care workers were disproportionately affected, catching the new virus from patients they were struggling to save.

'Hooey.' Clement denies using ghostwriter for online town hall tweets

Treasury Board President Tony Clement is dismissing as "hooey" a report suggesting he was not the author of his own tweets during an online town hall last year.

The Canadian Press, citing documents obtained under the Access to Information Act, reported this week that Clement's staff did much of the tweet composition.

The documents said Clement had employed a "ghost-writer" to create tweets and that some were written before the town hall last December as stock answers.

"The ghostwriter worked with subject matter experts to identify responses to questions and then worked with Clement to determine how to tweet in his voice," the documents said.

But the minister took to Twitter on Monday to deny the report. "That's a bunch of hooey," Clement wrote. "Docs are wrong. I directed the responses." THE CANDIAN PRESS

Mortgage rules slow housing market: report

August figures. Sales drop occurred in 21 of 28 metropolitan areas across Canada, says Conference Board

Canada's housing market appears to be cooling across the board in the face of tighter mortgage rules that affect many first-time buyers of modest means, a new analysis from the Conference Board shows.

The think tank's snapshot of resales for August shows a widespread decline in sales of existing homes, with 21 of 28 metropolitan markets registering a drop from July, and 16 of the markets showing a falloff of five per cent or more.

falloff of five per cent or more.
As well, listings fell in 17 of the 28 markets, an indication that owners were reluctant to place their homes for sale due to soft conditions.

Senior economist Robin Wiebe of the Conference Board said there was evidence of cooling in some markets — particularly Vancouver and Victoria — before the new rules went into effect July 9. But the new data shows the slowdown has spread to most markets and from coast to coast.

"When you see sales down in three-quarters of the market, that means it's pretty wide-spread," he said. "It's knocked previously high-flying markets like Regina and Saskatoon down a peg. Vancouver had been showing signs of cooling, now it's spread out into the Fraser Valley."

Still, the latest data shows that while sales and listings are down, prices appear to be holding steady. THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Taiwanese-owned company declined to say whether the factory was involved in iPhone production. It said the facility, which employs 79,000 people, would suspend work Monday and reopen Tuesday.

Foxconn makes iPhones and China-Japan tensions. Dispute over islands leads to customs delays

Japanese exporters are facing delays in shipments to some Chinese cities due to steppedup customs inspections as tensions between the two countries over disputed islands remain elevated.

The delays in shipments to China have been caused by increased vetting by customs officials in Guangzhou, Shanghai and Tianjin, an official with the Japan External Trade Organization, Yumiko Yoshimura, said Monday. However, the situation was normal in other major cities such as Beijing, Dalian and Qingdao.

By the numbers

Trade between China and Japan totalled $352 billion US last year.

Kintetsu World Express, Japan's second-biggest freightforwarding company, has cautioned its customers about possible delays at Chinese customs, although it hasn't received reports of any specific troubles. Sojitz Corp., a major trading firm specializing in China, said it was closely monitoring the situation but so far noticed no major delays or problems.

Tensions between China and Japan have spiked since the Japanese government earlier this month bought several disputed islands in the East China Sea from their Japanese owners.

The move was aimed at blocking a more provocative plan by Tokyo's nationalistic governor to buy and develop the islands, which are surrounded by rich fishing grounds and untapped natural resources. The ASSOCIATED PRESS

LINEUPS ARE FOR LUSHES

Last Saturday, I found myself in a position I swore I'd avoid forever: standing in line for a bar and hating every minute of it. Strangely, I felt as if I was the only person who understood what an awful reality the monstrously long line presented.

Didn't the crowd of Party-Rock enthusiasts surrounding me realize the one-in-one-out policy meant they'd be going inside roughly five minutes before last call? No, they were snapping Instagram selfies and seemingly oblivious to the chilly, just-turned-fall breeze on their inexplicably bare arms and legs

But seriously, why wait?

"For Apple fanatics, the communal experience of waiting for the newest iThing is part of the fun, a shared cultural experience of electronic-device worship."

There is a certain kind of cynicism, or maybe we'll call it wisdom, that comes with age that dictates just how long you're willing to stand in line to go to the bar of the moment. I guess the under-25 set just has much more stamina when it comes to late-night lineups.

Most people would agree that waiting in line can be a frustrating, anxiety-inducing and altogether boring process. But we tend to experience lineups in different ways based on our desires, expectations and whether or not we enjoy the company we're with.

In his article The Psychology of Waiting in Lines, former Harvard Business School professor David Maister examines how businesses and service organizations can improve the experience of waiting in line. Maister insists that it's how we wait — not how long we wait — that counts.

Lines we perceive to be unfair, unexplained or uncertain will always seem longer. Comparatively, queues that are reasonable, explained and predictable are much more bearable. Maister also points out that occupied time feels shorter than unoccupied time. This is why you'll find bad magazines in the waiting room at the dentist and mirrors in elevators.

Sometimes, lineups themselves aren't just a means to an end, but part of the overall experience. Last week, devoted fan-boys and girls camped out at Apple stores around the world in anticipation of the release of the iPhone 5, a shiny new smartphone marginally better than its predecessor. For Apple fanatics, the communal experience of waiting for the newest iThing is part of the fun, a shared cultural experience of electronic-device worship.

Ultimately, lineups are inevitable and unavoidable at airports, in emergency rooms and for every single public female bathroom in existence — but it isn't always the length of the line that determines whether or not something is worth the wait.

Unless it's already 1 a.m. and you're standing (in heels) behind 50 people in line for a bar. Then it's just time to go

Troops honour dead with airplane drop

Up to 1,100 troops from Holland, Belgium, Britain, Canada, Germany and the U.S. parachuted from airplanes above Ginkel Heath in the Netherlands.

The annual paratrooper drop this past weekend was to commemorate the Second World War's Battle of Arnhem, a significant airborne attempt by the Allies to cross the Khine River METRO

Organizer's viewpoint

"It was a perfect opportunity for active servicemen to perform a true paratroop drop with their NATO allies."

Thijs van der Laan, communication advisor at the Airborne Commemoration Foundation (for the Battle of Arnhem) Van der Laan told Metro that preparations to celebrate in two years, which will mark the 70th anniversary of the battle, are already underway. The Avengers
Directed by: Joss Whedon
and Zak Penn
Starring: Samuel L. Jackson,
Robert Downey Jr., Mark Ruffalo and Scarlett
Johansson

You don't have to sport a propeller beanie to enjoy The Avengers, which may be the highest possible praise for what director Joss Whedon and co-writer Zak Penn have wrought in their energizing superhero adventure.

Whether you love or merely like The Avengers will likely come down to the performances of the ensemble, and not the perfunctory plot or the on-the-fly back story.

And what an ensemble t is.

Samuel L. Jackson is Nick Fury, the director of a global peacekeeping agency comprised of a fistful of Marvel Comics superheroes that include Iron Man (Robert Downey, Jr.), The Hulk (Mark Ruffalo), Captain America (Chris Evans), Thor (Chris Hemsworth) and newcomer to the team the Black Widow (Scarlett Johansson), a lethal gymnast.

They're summoned to join together to fight the threat posed by Thor's angry adoptive brother, who is in cahoots with a reptilian alien race called Chitauri.

Damsels in Distress Directed by: Whit Stillman Starring: Greta Gerwig and Adam Brody

Whit Stillman's screwball college comedy Damsels in Distress is only the fourth film in his 22-year career and his first since The Last Days of Disco in 1998. Perhaps he needs all that time to write and store up the amusing aphorisms that issue from the mouths of his creations.

He reserves his best bon mots for lead damsel Violet (Greta Gerwig), who leads a quartet of do-gooders determined to help people improve themselves at Seven Oaks College, even if it kills them.

"There's enough material here for a lifetime of social work," Violet sighs, looking around her at all the mood girls and moronic boys who have alarmingly shot up the campus suicide rate.

Aptly named campus newspaper editor Rick DeWolfe (Zach Woods) and Violet share a brisk exchange about who's in the know about what's really going down, in a moment that is scathing comedy. But the two hardly cross paths after this, and the loss is felt.

Getting physical with Looper's Emily Blunt

Q & A. Actress dishes on her rough-and-tumble role while giving us a taste of her nerdier side

NED EHRBAR Metro World News in Hollywood

We sat down with Looper star Emily Blunt to talk about getting physical for her role in the film — namely, wielding a shotgun and an axe, despite the proper training — and how she got back at director Rian Johnson.

She also got into a bit of name-calling when the subject of time travel came up, but she can get away with it.

In this movie, you are quite handy with a shotgun.

Yeah! I hopefully didn't look like a sissy with a shotgun, so that's good.

No, you were very convincing, very threatening. How much prep did you do for that?

With the shotgun? The thing I prepped for, actually, was the chopping wood.

the chopping wood.

That's the thing I practiced for about a month beforehand in my backyard.

I had this guy come over and deliver logs and an axe, and he was like, "There you go." And I was like, "Oh, I don't know how to do this," and he was like, "I don't know how to do this either."

So I just practiced for a while. And that was probably the hardest scene to shoot, the chopping wood scene. Physically, by the end of the day I was just like, "Argh!"

I don't know how many takes you had to do...

A lot. A lot.

And did you exact any sort of revenge on Rian for making you chop so much wood?

I don't think I did, actually. I mean, maybe the most vengeful thing that happened was that we had to put fake blood on everyone, and the little boy hated it, so we doused Rian with fake blood as well just so he would feel like one of the team.

But it didn't help. The kid still hated it.

That's good, I think, that the kid hated being doused in fake blood.

Well, he should, right? He's five. He should hate that.

I'm still trying to wrap my head around the fact that the guy who delivers the wood and the axe doesn't know how to use it.

I know, I know. He just dropped the logs off and was like, "I think you kind of do it like this." I was like, "Oh great. I'll figure it out."

I wanted to talk a little bit, briefly about time travel...

Nerd.

Yes, yes. I am. Did you guys spend any time off-screen actually trying to wrap your heads around time travel?

I mean, I never get too wrapped up in the technological stuff. I don't really geek out for that stuff. I'm not the best person to nerd out with over time travel.

Pacey picks up: Holmes dials Dawson's co-star

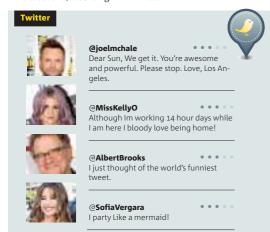

So what's one of the first things Katie Holmes did after splitting with husband Tom Cruise? Reconnect with old friends. Former Dawson's Creek co-star Joshua Jackson confirms that he recently heard from Holmes in an interview on George Stroumboulopoulos Tonight. Jackson, who was rumoured to be linked romantically to Holmes years ago, says they had a "very nice" chat. "Like any old friend, it was like, 'Oh hi, how are you? What's going on?' 'I had a kid,'" he says. "I was very nice, actually."

Did a night at the movies rekindle this romance?

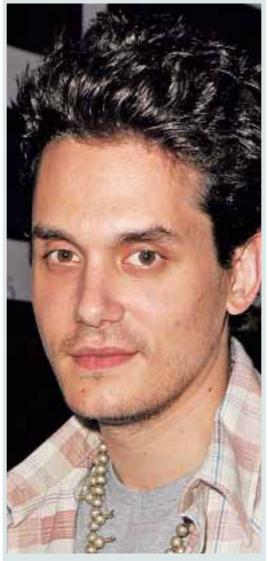

Bradley Cooper and his The Words co-star Zoe Saldana are fueling suspicion once again that they're more than just friends, looking quite cosy after taking in a movie together in Los Angeles over the weekend, according to People magazine. The pair first sparked romance rumours while filming their indie drama and then again in January at the Sundance Film Festival, where they were "being very affectionato".

OUR TAKE ON THE WORLD OF CELEBRITIES

How does John Mayer do it?

THE WORD Dorothy Robinson scene@metronews.ca

John Mayer's little black book reads like a who's who of GQ magazine covers: There's Jennifer Love Hewitt, Jessica Simpson, Jennifer Aniston, Minka Kelly, Taylor Swift, and, most recently, new divorcee Katy Perry.

But Perry's friends are worried about the singer due to Mayer's lady killer reputation, according to Radar Online. Sources say her pals are urging her to end it with Mayer before she gets too attached. "Katy's friends and family haven't taken to John at all. In fact, they are worried that she is headed for heartbreak," a source says. "Despite the fiery image Katy likes to present, she's actually more fragile than that, and when John dumped her a few weeks after they first got together she was devastated. Now that she has invested more feelings in John and has let her guard down, there's only one way this can end — in disaster."

Disaster — or an eventual song about Mayer and his heartbreaking ways. Or, depending on how you feel about Katy Perry's singing, it could be both.

Lawyers putting the kibosh on Kanye tapes?

It looks like there could be some truth to the rumours of a Kanye West sex tape — or two, even — now that lawyers for the rapper have sent out a cease-and-desist letter to multiple media outlets demanding they take down posts featuring a screen shot allegedly from the video, according to AllHipHop.com. "Be advised that the screen shot, as well as the tape from which the screen shot was taken, were illegally obtained and believed to have been stolen from Mr. West's computer," West's attorney writes in the letter. And according to TMZ, there's a second sex tape featuring the rapper being shopped around. "Both tapes are impressively long. The first is roughly 20 minutes," source tell the website. "The second is more than 40."

Tex Mex Chili's lighter side

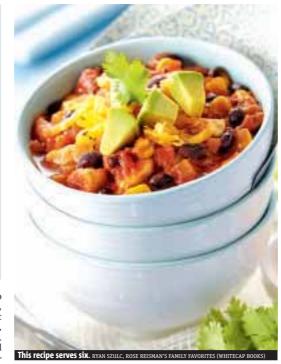

This is a lighter chili typically served in the Southwest. Úsing chicken rather than reduces the calories and fat. Dusting the chicken with flour maintains the moisture. Aged cheddar is the perfect accompaniment and you can add diced avocado to the list of garnishes.

- 1. Place the chicken and flour in a bowl and toss to coat. Lightly coat a nonstick saucepan with cooking spray, add 1 tsp of the vegetable oil and set over medium heat. Sauté the chicken for 5 minutes or until it is lightly browned on all sides, but do not cook through. Set aside.
- 2. Respray the same saucepan, add the remaining vegetable oil and set over medium heat. Add the onion and cook until soft, stirring frequently, about 5 minutes. Stir in the corn and garlic and continue to cook and stir for 5 minutes or until the corn is browned.

- 12 oz skinless boneless chicken breasts (about 3 breasts), diced
- 1/4 cup all-purpose flour
- 2 tsp vegetable oil
- 1 1/2 cups chopped onion
- 1 cup canned corn, drained
- 2 tsp finely chopped garlic • 1 1/2 cups canned black
- beans, drained and rinsed 2 1/2 cups tomato sauce • 3/4 cup chicken (or beef)
- 1 tbsp chili powder
- 1 1/2 tsp dried basil
- 1 tsp dried oregano
- 1 1/2 tsp seeded and finely chopped jalapeño pepper
- pinch of salt and pepper
- 1/4 cup chopped cilantro
- 1/2 cup shredded aged light
- 1/4 cup low-fat sour cream

3. Stir in the beans, tomato sauce, stock, chili powder, basil, oregano, jalapeño, salt and pepper. Bring to a boil, reduce the heat and cover. Simmer for 15 minutes. Add the diced chicken and simmer, uncovered, for 5 minutes or until the chicken is just cooked through and the chili thickens.

4. Serve the Tex Mex chili in bowls, and garnish with cilantro, aged light cheddar cheese and sour cream. ROSE REISMAN'S FAMILY FAVORITES (WHITECAP BOOKS) BY ROSE REISMAN

Most of these are in your pantry and you likely use them once a week (turmeric is in curry powder), but you'd be wise to work them all in daily.

Add cloves and/or cinnamon to your morning coffee, any type of yogurt or oatmeal.

Add fresh or dried herbs like rosemary, oregano and thyme to every soup or salad you have for lunch. They can also be added to pasta sauce.

Denting cars

And that's why you always leave a note!

What is the correct etiquette when my kids fling open their car doors and damage/dent the car next to me? Can I please just ignore it and tell my kids to never do that again, or do I seriously have to write a personal note and pay for the damage?

Well I suspect you know my answer, especially since I just bought a brand new car two weeks ago.

Yes if your kids dent a door you should leave a little note, and do your best to teach your kids to be careful.

Now I know lots of you will write and say, just don't worry about it; dents and scratches happen all the time and nobody leaves a note. But remember, your question was "what is the correct etiquette?" Now what do most people do?

They pretend they did not see what they did, close their own car door and walk away!

So my final word is just do your best to be careful, but remember little scratches and accidents do happen, and this is life.

Pulitzer-Prize-winning author Junot Diaz muses on modern love

GINA ANGELOTTI

Metro World News in New York

As tales of relationship redemption go, each of the nine relatable short stories in Junot Diaz's consummate collection, This Is How You Lose Her, triumphs.

In nonlinear vignettes of brotherly, paternal and romantic love, his characters — who dig themselves into holes and then must grin through the grit and bear it — remind us of the power of self-preservation.

While not explicitly present in every story, Yunior — aged five, 15, 20 and 30-something — is at the core of them. As "the most awesome ex-boyfriend in the world" but a "terrible boyfriend," he never comes out the victor in a traditional sense, but he proves to be a survivor, continuously learning from his mistakes.

What are the roots of his indiscretions and inadequacies? Diaz suggests that immigrating to the U.S. from the Dominican Republic and witnessing death at an impressionable age contribute to Yunior's commitment-phobia.

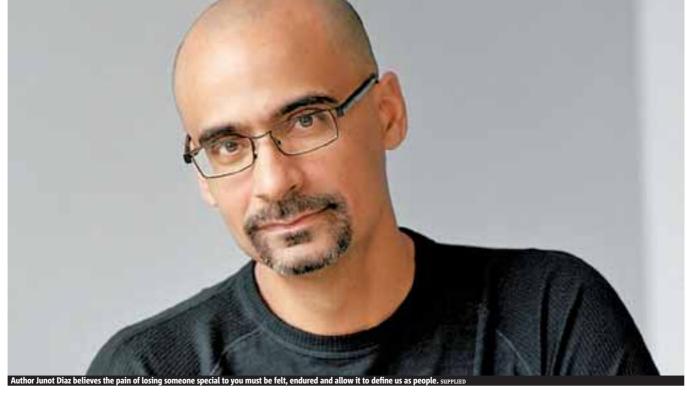

"Part of the art (of writing) is not to look at the most obvious answer," Diaz says. "When I think of what's wrong with Yunior, I think: make a list of the things he's lost."

things he's lost."

That laundry list — not limited to losing his brother to cancer, his own youth to the responsibilities that beckon afterward and his girlfriends to his vices — doesn't excuse Yunior's flawed, sometimes chauvinistic behavior.

But Diaz doesn't judge or shame him for it either; rather he acknowledges that the person hurt most by a cheater is himself.

We sympathize with

Yunior, transgressions and all.

Through interrogative second-person narration and colloquial language peppered with Spanish, the Pulitzer Prize-winning author authentically captures Junior's cultural and emotional dualities.

We get real with Diaz about falling in love — and getting back up again.

How did you tap into Yunior's various life stages, which feel raw and identifiable?

I wish that I could say that I had a secret or that it came easily, but what ends up happening is that I spend a lot of time steeping in my characters, steeping in their moments.

And in fact, I always think that I could do better.

Having written a character who repeatedly fails at monogamy, do you yourself believe in it?

I think it's difficult, but I think: God, what isn't difficult? Given how easy it is in our culture to jump out, it makes that struggle all the more difficult.

I think the debate is how honest we can be with ourselves with other people. Most of the time we just hurt the other person rather than talk to them.

Don't you think a lot of our views of the world are not very clear-minded, that we tend to be thinking from our place of hurt?

We're hurt, so we tend to have a more shrunk-down, impoverished view.

In your final story, you poignantly say the halflife of love — the length of time it takes to let go when a relationship ends — is forever. Have you at least found an effective prescription for moving Heartbreak is one of our great challenges, and enduring it really defines our character. My feeling has always been, if you're in pain, the only thing that you can do is feel it. If you're overwhelmed by loss, the only thing you can do is be overwhelmed. It's sort of simplistic, but I've never found anything else that worked.

YOUR MONEY

ESTATE PLANNING It might take months to fight, but don't let the financial services industry get away with errors. 185

Dig your heels in: You too can win a battle against the big banks Alison's Money Rule. If you feel something is unfair at your financial institution, put up a fight!

I won! Maybe you can't fight city hall but you can fight battles (and sometimes win) against the financial services industry. Here's the back-story.
My dear old Dad died in January at 89. I am his executor. Because the estate was less than $25,000 in total, there was no need to probate the will.

Dad had a couple of bank accounts, a Registered Retirement Investment Fund (RRIF) and a small investment account at Canadian ShareOwner Investments Inc. (CSI) where he liked to dabble in the stock market.

Dad also had a bunch of pensions and a small life insurance policy. The pension and insurance people were cooperative and prompt as I went through the sad process of saying a financial goodbye to my father.
I expected the same from CSI,

RBC, CIBC and TD Canada Trust. Au contraire. There isn't enough room here to outline all the time wasting mistakes, roadblocks, and bafflegab I experienced.

The institutions all had notarized copies of the will, death certificate, witnessed proof of my identity and a letter of direction from me, the executor, about what I wanted done with his accounts.

Even so, I was asked to sign and have notarized various "internal" affidavits in order to close any of his accounts or make transactions. CIBC refused to open an estate account because my father did not bank there, though I have for over 30 years. I could have gone to RBC where my father banked but after four significant errors, including an unauthorized $8,000 debit which took time and energy to reverse, I wasn't going near the place Probate fees are imposed by the court and vary by province. Assets such as RRSPs and insurance are not included in the fee calculation.

My lawyer, who specializes in estates, made it clear that CIBC had no legal grounds to refuse me, and the so-called "required" affidavits were not necessary. A follow up with the Solicitor General's office confirmed his information.

I dug in my heels. It took nearly four months to go up the various ladders. I could have given in but the patriarchal and intransigent attitudes in the financial industry got me fighting mad. In the end, I won. The banks and the Canadian Share-Owner acquiesced. The latter even waived a $150 fee.

The moral of the story is this: If you feel something is unfair at your financial institution, put up a fight — you might win.

Hey friend, you're busting my budget

I have to agree with The Beatles that "The best things in life are free" including the richness we find in our relationships with friends and family members. But, for many Canadians, money is often spent to experience relationships — dinners, parties, coffees, gifts, travel and more.

Have you ever wondered what it costs to have friends?

I started thinking about this last week as I embarked jaw resulting from a random hiking accident.

For the next few months I won't be able to enjoy dinners at restaurants or workout classes - both activities cost money and involve hanging out with my pals.

In one short week I've saved $100 because I've had to find other activities to do with my friends which involve eating at home, low-impact exercise like walking and renting movies rather than going out to a the-

What do you spend to main-on medical treatment that will tain your relationships? Could ultimately heal my dislocated you be more frugal without compromising your friendships?

According to a poll conducted in July by Coupon Cabin, 20 per cent of respondents have felt pressured to keep up with friends in terms of spending on things like homes, cars, clothes, dining, travel and more. Nineteen per cent of respondents spend $500 or more per year on gifts and nearly 20 per cent have had to 'break up' with pals because of money related issues.

If you're social life is busting your budget try these sugges tions. Host pot-luck dinners and BBOs rather than eating at restaurants. Schedule coffee 'dates' rather than lunch. Pull out your dusty board games or old movies and entertain at home. If you like getting active, select free activities like walking, hiking, biking, running, football, baseball, or other sports. Rather than shopping for clothing and accessories, host a clothing swap over home made appetizers. NHL. Oilers eye Seattle for possible relocation

With plans for a new arena in doubt, the Edmonton Oilers say they are considering a move to Seattle.

Oilers owner Daryl Katz, team president Patrick LaForge and Kevin Lowe, president of hockey operations, are in Seattle for meetings about a possible relocation to the city.

The Oilers said in a statement that while they hope to reach a deal with Edmonton on a new arena, the team is also listening to proposals from a number of potential NHL markets.

Seattle City Council approved hedge-fund manager

Chris Hansen's plan for a $490-million US arena Monday that both sides hope will host an NBA and NHL team in the future

The Oilers and the City of Edmonton had agreed on plans for a proposed $475-million cost-shared arena that would begin construction early next year.

But the arena and the Oilers' future in the city were thrown into doubt earlier this month when the team told councillors it wanted millions of dollars in new concessions from taxpayers.

CFL. Cornish facing team discipline for mooning fans

Calgary Stampeders running back Jon Cornish was fined an undisclosed amount by the Canadian Football League on Monday for "inappropriate conduct towards CFL fans" during a 30-25 loss in Saskatchewan over the weekend.

Reports indicated the native of New Westminster, B.C., exposed part of his buttocks to the crowd at Mosaic Stadium. Stampeders coach and general manager John Hufnagel confirmed Monday that Cornish 'pulled his pants down low' during the game.

"I think you see how disappointed Jon is in himself once

Tackling by hair fair play, CFL confirms

Fair warning to CFL players: Long, flowing hair might look great and be the latest rage, but it's fair game on the football field.

Tom Higgins, the CFL's director of officiating, said Monday long hair is deemed a part of a player's equipment and can be used in the making of a tackle.

The issue came to light Sunday when Montreal kick-returner Trent Guy was twice pulled down by his long dreadlocks in the Alouettes' 31-10 nationally televised home win over the Toronto Argonauts the Toronto Argonauts.

Toronto's Mike Bradwell grabbed rookie Guy's hair in the second quarter during a punt return. A flag was thrown but the penalty was quickly overturned.

"It's part of the uniform," Higgins said. "It's like tackling a guy by the arm. "It's a part of him so you're allowed to use it to make a tackle."

Guy, who returned a missed field goal a clubrecord 129 yards for a touchdown in the contest, said this wasn't the first time he had been pulled down by the hair.

"Tve been tackled by my hair a number of times," the former Louisville standout said with a chuckle. "Tm kind of used to it now."

Surprisingly, Guy has never considered getting his hair cut.

"No, not at all," he said.
"My hair has been pretty long since college and is just something I have to deal with." THE CANADIAN PRESS

NHL labour talks stuck in neutral

NHL. Commissioner Bettman, Donald Fehr expected to be in contact today

A face-to-face meeting between top officials from the NHL and NHL Players' Association wasn't enough to break their labour

The sides spent almost five hours together Monday going over accounting for last season, but didn't emerge with any

The Ryder Cup is heading to Chicago for the first time and uke Donald is the only player who can call be Windy City home. here's only one catch Donald is English. "I think the league is waiting for us to make the move, and we're waiting for them to move. So someone has to move. And I don't see it coming from our end." Red Wings forward Danny Cleary, predicting a prolonged lockout to the Detroit Free Press on Monday plan to resume collective bargaining talks. The topic wasn't even raised, according to representatives from each camp.

Nine days into the lockout, negotiations remain on hold with the owners and players entrenched in their positions.

"Obviously, we've got to talk before you can get a deal, so I think it's important to get the talks going again," said deputy commissioner Bill Daly. "But you also have to have something to say. I think it's fair to say we feel like we need to hear from the players' association in a meaningful way because I don't think that they've really moved off their initial proposal."

Steve Fehr, NHLPA's special counsel, declined comment.

Neither NHLPA executive director Donald Fehr or commissioner Gary Bettman attended the meeting. But the two men were expected to take in an NHL alumni dinner Monday night where Daly suggested they may discuss resuming talks. THE CANADIAN PRESS

T Aries

March 21 - April 20

Keep things in perspective and resist the urge to get emotional today. Partnership issues may be challenging but they are not half as bad as they seem. Everything will work out for the best in the end.

Taurus April 21 - May 21

Put your affairs in order today. The more you do now, the less you will have to do towards the end of the week and that means you will have more time for what you really enjoy. Make the effort.

∐ Gemini

May 22 - June 21

Saturn remains in the most dynamic area of your chart only until Oct. 5, so if there are things you still need to do, get on with them now. Don't look back one day and regret what might have been.

Gancer

June 22 - July 23

Times may be tough in more ways than one but the long-term prognosis is extremely good, so cheer up. Today you should patch up your differences with a relative or friend. You still have so much in common

Ω Leo July 24 - Aug. 23

A brilliant idea will take hold in your mind today, the kind of idea that could transform your existence on every level. Don't let it get away from you. Find ways to act on it straight away.

W Virgo Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

You need to admit, if only to yourself, that the reason something has gone wrong is because your methods were impractical. You should have recognized that fact before but better late than never. Now, do it right.

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

You must not let anyone or anything divert you from the important task you have set yourself. Some say Libra is the most indecisive of all the signs. Now is your chance to prove the critics and doubters wrong.

M Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

It is a complete waste of time worrying about things over which you have no control. Focus your mind on good thoughts only today and you may be surprised just how many of your dreams start coming true.

Sagittarius Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

You have been trying too hard to get along with someone at work. The more you try to impress them, the more they make life difficult for you. Give up on it. They are not worthy of your friendship.

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

Over the past few months, you have put a lot of effort into your work and now the rewards are coming at you from all directions. Don't let anyone tell you that you do not deserve it. You do.

Aquarius Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

Whatever life throws at you over the next few days, you will find ways to deal with it. In fact, by the time the moon is full on the Sept. 30, you will be operating on a higher level. Nothing can faze you.
